Product Description

The Zigbee carbon monoxide sensor from HEIMAN makes your home safe and protects you from the danger posed by the "silent killer" carbon monoxide (CO). The sensor reliably detects CO in the air and alerts you with an alarm tone of 85 dB and a visual signal when defined limit values are exceeded.

In addition to the acoustic and optical signal in the event of an alarm, scenes can also be automatically triggered in the Zigbee 3.0 gateway and notifications sent. The battery-powered device also warns you when the battery level is low and promises a battery life of up to 3 years.
