Product Description

High-quality Maclean MCE502 electric radiator with a touch glass panel. Thanks to its high power of 2000W, it is ideal for quickly heating or reheating rooms. The heating can be controlled using a touch panel, while the free Smart Life application allows access to additional functions using a smartphone or tablet with Android or iOS. Additionally, the Smart Life app is compatible with both Amazon Alexa and Google Home. Thanks to the application, it is possible to program the heating by creating programs and schedules for turning the heater on and off. Programs can be one-time, such as setting a timer, or cyclical, where the heating will turn on at the same time every day. An unlimited number of weekly programs can be set. The automation function allows you to configure actions triggered by external events, such as weather, temperature, humidity, sunset, sunrise and the user's location. You can add multiple actions and multiple triggers for each event, so you can, for example, set the heater to turn on at 21°C when it's snowing! The glass display shows information about the currently selected heating mode, selected temperature, current room temperature and the status of the Wi-Fi connection. Using the touch panel, you can quickly change the mode, target temperature or set the timer. The elegant design of the radiator makes it easily fit into any interior. The radiator can be mounted either on the wall or placed on the floor. The set includes mounting accessories and non-slip feet.
